

- Eligibility for graduation. Have you completed all of the coursework required of your degree? If the answer is yes, you are not eligible for A+, regardless if you have applied for graduation.

Reimbursement for Next Semester

SEMESTER X CURRENT SEMESTER CLASSES	CREDIT HOURS	GRADE
Deduct # of credit hours* from which you withdrew in Semester X
TOTAL # of credit hours eligible for A+ payment in semester/Semester X

In "GRADE" column, mark a "W" for withdrawn courses.

SEMESTER Y NEXT SEMESTER CLASSES	CREDIT HOURS
TOTAL CREDIT HOURS
Deduct # of credit hours* for any classes you are repeating in Semester Y	-
TOTAL # of credit hours eligible for A+ payment in the next semester/Semester Y

*The amount charged to A+ for the course is what is deducted from the following semester, but for ease of calculation, it can be figured as credit hours. Any course fees will also be deducted.

EXAMPLE:

John's first semester:

CLASS	CREDIT HOURS	GRADE
College Algebra	3	A
English I	3	A
Microcomputer Application	3	W (withdrawn)
American History	3	B
Chemistry	3	D
TOTAL PAID BY A+	15-3= 12 credit hours paid

*The amount A+ covered for the Microcomputer class (withdrawn class), will be billed to John's account. He will need to pay that amount to avoid any delays in enrollment and courses being dropped the following semester.

John's second semester:

CLASS	CREDIT HOURS	GRADE
Zoology	3	B
English II	3	A
Speech	3	B
Chemistry	3	C*Repeated
Western Civilization	3	A
Microcomputer Application	3	B
TOTAL PAID BY A+	18-3=15 credit hours paid

*A+ will not pay for 3 credit hours (and related class fees if applicable) in the next semester because the Speech class (3 credit hours) was a repeated class and needs to be deducted. Microcomputer Application is not considered a repeated class because John withdrew from it.

John maintained at least a 2.5 in his first semester, so he was able to retain his A+ eligibility.
